Pangea3 Defines the Meaning of LPO 2.0: Webinar provides counsel with crash course on keeping up with the changes in the legal process outsourcing industry

EAGAN, Minn. November 7, 2011

Legal process outsourcing has evolved from a niche practice to a sophisticated global resource, widely accepted by in-house counsel and law firms in need of increased efficiency and value. Now entering a new phase, LPO is poised to transform the legal industry.

A panel of experts will set the course for the next LPO phase in a live webinar, "LPO 2.0: Beyond document review and towards strategic partnerships," presented by the New York Law Journal in collaboration with Pangea3, the most experienced provider of high-quality outsourced legal solutions, and a Thomson Reuters business.

David Perla, co-CEO and co-founder, Pangea3, along with John Cheek, senior corporate counsel, Caterpillar, and Ron Friedmann, law practice-support consultant, will discuss recent trends, new directions and changing expectations on the LPO landscape.

Webinar topics will also include:

- Determining the significance of LPO 2.0 to the legal profession
- Changing views of LPO: Moving from a cost-saving mechanism to a strategic partnership
- Navigating market complexities in the next 12-18 months
- Assessing the impact of the "Great Recession" on LPO offerings
- Presenting an outlook for 2012 and beyond

The live webinar, "LPO 2.0: Beyond document review and
